Ecomondo 2016: the Green Economy global market

The driver of sustainable development is circular economy

Bio-economy and energy efficiency – these were the most important topics of the twentieth edition of Ecomondo, the international fair dedicated to Green Economy which was held in Rimini from 8 to 11 November 2016.

This Rimini based exhibition represents the main business-to-business appointment for all those working in industry and services in a green key, combining economical and environmental sustainability.

Ecomondo sees itself as the ideal habitat for circular economy where companies find the ideal solutions for improving production by reducing waste and transforming and enhancing by-products and refuse

Business internationalisation and quality intensifies the opinions of exhibitors and visitors alike. The companies were the star of a window of excellence overlooking the world.

With 105,574 visitors (+2% compared to the 2015 edition) in the four days, of which more than 11,000 were foreigners, the Rimini fair is again at first place in international exhibitions for this business sector.

PTC updates the Built-In range and presents the new Compact Trailer

PTC interpreted the topic of the fair marvellously with its completely renewed look. Even the new Compact Trailer, presented for the first time at the exhibition, combines the green of the environment with the blue of water in its casing perfectly in line with the green economy theme and company mission. The new compact, trailer mounted pressure jetting unit, approved for road transport (category B licence), comes in the cold water and hot water versions with pressures of up to 500 bar and flow rates reaching 60 l/min.

This exhibition was also the chance to present the public with the renewed Built-in series, the compact canal jet units for unblocking and cleaning sewers. All three versions (Whale, Salmon and Moses), have undergone important improvements in terms of performance and design to keep abreast of the demands of both market and customers.
